Dear Sir:-

I don't know if you had the letter which I once wrote to you for the benefit of your father, - whose disease I deplore very much. He was a most deserving man, especially through his critical labours on the text of Jerusalemic Talmud.

Now I have news from Vilna, that Mrs. Ratner is not well of in financial matters, and the Jewish chaplain Dr. Levi (whose work Dr. Magnes highly admired at his staying in Vilna) asks me to write to you about the status of Mrs. Ratner; he begs that you should send to your mother a considerable amount.

I think, esteemed Sir, that you have easy ways to send money to Vilna; if not I am ready to send your mother what you should let me have for her.

Yours truly

S. S. Putnam
