Now, the other members of the larger group, having found their way into the church, began to pray, but no further sound of singing or of the organ in the cathedral was heard. The religious service had been completed, and all were soon seated in their homes or in the houses of their friends. The united friends of the church, therefore, met in the parish hall of St. John's, as had been arranged, to form a meeting to consider the welfare of the congregation. The meeting was formed in the classroom of St. John's, and the proceedings of the meeting were stenographically transcribed by Miss Smith, the stenographer of the church. The meeting lasted for several hours, and the proceedings were recorded in great detail.

The meeting was well attended, and the participants were enthusiastic. The Rev. Mr. Brown, the pastor of the church, gave a speech on the importance of unity among the members of the congregation. He emphasized the need for cooperation and mutual support in order to strengthen the church and its mission.

The meeting concluded with the adoption of several resolutions. The first resolution called for the formation of a committee to study the possibility of enlarging the church property. The second resolution requested additional
